HAGGINS TO SELL HIS HORSES.
Will Turn Attention to Breeding Cattle at Elmendorf Farm.

Lexington, Ky., June 16.—James B. Haggins has announced his intention of selling all his horses at his Elmendorf farm here and turning his attention to breeding of fine cattle, a nucleus of the plant having already been started. His decision was caused by the passage of the anti-betting law in New York, which Haggins says ruins prices of horses. Haggins has at his farm here 600 stallions and mares worth $1,000,000. Watercross being his greatest horse, he having paid $70,000 for him two years ago. He has several mares worth from $10,000 to $15,000. Pearl V is worth $20,000.

CHEMIST BLOWN UP BY VAPOR.

Woman Physicians Probably Fatally Hurt in St. Louis by Explosion.

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—While Albert A. Picker, a St. Louis manufacturer, and Miss Myra A. Mathews, a practicing physician of St. Louis, were experimenting with chemicals in a laboratory at 1006 St. Ange avenue, vapor from the mixture filled the room and exploded, injuring Dr. Mathews, probably fatally, burning Picker and blowing the front out of the building, which caught fire.

Picker, who had seen that the explosion was inevitable, was hurrying toward the door with the woman when it occurred. After the shock, which rendered the woman unconscious, he carried her to the pavement, where bystanders extinguished her burning dress. Picker ran down the street, his clothes blazing, screaming, "Save me, save me." He was stopped in front of a physician's office and the flames beaten out.

Possibility of Stampede to Roosevelt and Uncertainty of Vice-Presidency Keeps Delegates on Keen Edge

- 12:25 P. M.—Secretary Dover reads the official call.
- 12:30 P. M.—Senator J. C. Burrows presented as temporary chairman.

- 3:15 P. M.—Selection of committee on resolutions.
- 3:30 P. M.—Miscellaneous business.
- 4:00 P. M.—Adjournment.

Chicago, Ill., June 16; 2:30 p. m.—When the convention really got down to business every indication was that Roosevelt dominates completely. It is expected that the program will go through without a hitch. Danger of any stampede to the president is considered over.

Chicago, June 16.—(Bulletin.)—Congressman Burke, of Pennsylvania, introduced a resolution cutting down representation of southern states in the convention. Southerners wildly opposed it and it was referred to the rules committee. Chairman Burrows announced that owing to contests none of the Louisiana delegation would sit on the committee. The convention adjourned until tomorrow at noon.

Chicago, June 16.—With uncertainty as the dominating characteristic despite the efforts of leaders to prepare a cut and dried program the fourteenth Republican national convention opened at noon in the Coliseum. Possibility of a stampede to Roosevelt despite 700 votes claimed for Taft and the unsolved problem of the vice presidency had delegates and spectators alike on edge. The possibility of a fight on the floor over putting labor planks in the platform increased the uncertainty. The enormous hall was packed when National Chairman New, of Indiana, opened proceedings. Twelve thousand people were present including hundreds of women.

A huge platform 100x160 feet at the southern end accommodated leaders, diplomats and honored guests. Nine hundred and eighty delegates and an equal number of alternates, including two Utah women, occupied the main floor behind the reporters' section. Tiers of seats surmounted by galleries ranged around three sides of the amphitheater. Everywhere were flags and the national colors, forming a beautiful decoration scheme. There was the greatest demand for admission in history. Thousands were outside hours before the doors opened at 10 o'clock. The crowd was enthusiastic from the start and all delegations were cheered. Prominent leaders were applauded uproariously and Taft leaders got a great ovation. The program today is for a complete temporary organization and adjourn until tomorrow noon. Committees begin work this afternoon.

Called to Order.
Bands played while the hall was filling. Just at noon Chairman New arrived and called the convention to order. Bishop Muldoon, of the Catholic diocese of Chicago, delivered the invocation. John R. Malloy, of Ohio, temporary chairman, read the call. Chairman New called for a vote on Burrows' selection as temporary chairman, which was unanimously adopted.

Former Mayor Fleischman, of Cincinnati, carried a silk banner with Taft's picture in the convention and was given an ovation. Telegraph operators were working wires to the white house. Taft's office had a prominent place in the hall. Senator Burrah on arrival at the hall declared that he would place Roosevelt in nomination, but admitted he had been asked to do so but refused.

Hearing Contests.
Senator Hemenway, of Congressman Burke, the real leaders of Taft opposition admit they have little hope.

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS.

Will receive support of the Kentucky delegation for vice-president should Wilson's name not go before the convention.

Hughes' boomers are more enthusiastic. Antis will make a hard fight before credentials committee this afternoon. They will concentrate their efforts on the Alabama contests for influence of seating anti-Taft men there. Contests for delegates at large will be heard by the whole committee. Sub-committees only deal with district contests. There is little doubt that the work of the national committee will be approved in most contests.

Committee Appointments.
Following are committee appointments announced by states: Illinois—credentials, Frank L. Smith; resolutions, Albert J. Hopkins; national committee, Frank O. Lowden. Kentucky—credentials, Wilbur D. Cochran; resolutions, Marshall M. Bullitt.

Taft at White House.
Washington, June 16.—Taft called at the white house and canvassed the situation with Roosevelt. Reporters questioned him regarding the vice presidency but he refused to discuss the question.

The Platform.

Chicago, June 16.—The tentative draft of the Republican platform contains praises for Roosevelt and says the administration marks a new epoch in the national history, and pledges adherence to his policies. Congress is praised for the emergency currency bill and other recent legislation. Calls for tariff revision at the special session next March. Upholds protection give security against foreign competition. Urges amendment to Sherman anti-trust bill to give federal control of corporations but relieving labor organizations, etc., from its supervision. Condemns "Jim Crow" cars. Approves policy to keep the nation ready always for defense. Promises ratification of The Hague conference treaties and says that a continuance of present policies requires continuance of present party in power. Declares for amendments to statutes governing procedure in federal courts to prevent summary use of injunction while preserving power of courts to enforce their process.

Chicago, June 16.—A Roosevelt stampede is apparently the only thing that can prevent Taft's nomination. It is reported this morning that all but LaFollette and Hughes have agreed to withdraw their names after the first vote was taken and before the ballot was announced. If Hughes, and LaFollette stick it will prevent a unanimous nomination. Fairbanks' boom for the vice presidency is growing stronger. Taft men have decided they don't want a candidate from either extremity of the country. Booms for Sherman and Cortelyou are wanting therefore.

The following speech was delivered by Hon. Julius C. Burrows, of Michigan, as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:
Another chapter in our national history under Republican administration is soon to be concluded, and conforming to party usage long es-

WITH PROSPECTS OF SUCCESS

Chicago, June 16.—A succession of victories by the Republican party in Kentucky, by which they captured the state government and sent W. O. Bradley to the United States senate, has put Kentucky in the running up here in Chicago. Kentucky occupies a bigger spot on the map nowadays, and when a Republican says he is from Kentucky his hearers sit up and take more notice than they did four years ago, when Roosevelt was nominated for the presidency and when Kentucky had a Democratic government.

With the arrival of the advance guard last night the mauling which has been administered steadily to Senator-elect W. O. Bradley ever since his arrival here was renewed with much vigor. The senator announced yesterday afternoon that he proposed to carry the fight of the contesting Fairbanks delegates from the First, Sixth and Eleventh Kentucky districts to the credentials committee of the national convention, and he added:

"My friends are insisting that I accept a proxy and take the floor, but I do not know that I shall. I may do so, however."

This would have given the senator-elect a chance to make a spread-eagle speech and demonstrate to the delegates of the G. O. P. that he was a real live senator from the Democratic state of Kentucky.

But just as soon as the Taft men in Kentucky got wind of the senator's intentions, they got busy, and several Taft leaders, among them Collector Maurice Galvin, of Covington, announced that Bradley had no chance to get the privileges of the floor; that only delegates had a right to the floor and in their absence only their alternates could act.

It is known that the Kentucky senator's plans were communicated to

COUSIN DROWNED IN ARKANSAS

Mrs. H. A. English, of 1226 Monroe street, received word this morning of the drowning of her cousin, Frank Willis, of Eureka Springs, Ark., while on a picnic party at Beaver, Ark. Mr. Willis was 19 years old and a bright young man. He leaves his parents and four sisters. He was a nephew of John W. Evers and Mrs. C. S. McCammon, of Grahamville, and a cousin of W. H. Covington, of Ragland. Mr. Willis was a graduate of the University of Fayetteville, Ark.

MULE ATTACKS AUTO.

"Maud," the mule, or her sister, got on a typical rampage at Massac and nearly demolished the new automobile of Dr. Z. C. Graham, of the county. Instead of running from the automobile this mule made a beeline for Dr. Graham, despite the frantic efforts of her driver to hold her back, and jumped over the rear end of the automobile, spilling out the occupants of the buggy to which she was hitched and damaging the auto. Not content with this demonstration, the mule started for Dr. Graham's machine again, but was finally headed off until Dr. Graham could get up full speed. A woman and several children were in the buggy overturned by the mule, but no one was hurt. Dr. Graham came upon a large party near Massac, who had been fishing, and of all the horses and mules here, this one alone undertook to vindicate her species.

HUGH MILLER WILL SUCCEED DICK TOLBERT

Miller has been deputy guard for the railroad for several years and the position will come as a recognition of his services. W. M. Smith is the regular night policeman, and it is understood that he will make a fight for the day job and have the new man to work at night.

LABEL SUIT COMPROMISED

Lawrenceburg, June 16.—Noel Gaines' label suit against Percy Haly has been settled out of court by each side agreeing to pay its own costs.

BICYCLE THIEF IS OPERATING IN CITY

There is a bicycle thief operating in Paducah, and the police are trying to catch the fellow guilty of the thefts. Last night three wheels were stolen from owners who had left them for a few minutes. Rowlin Thomas lost his wheel, which had a coaster brake, and J. B. Snider found his wheel missing when he went to return home last night. A. J. Bamberg was the third man to report that his wheel had been stolen.

The police have been given a good description of the bicycles, and hope to have the thief in the toils of the law. The thief's game is to watch a rider dismount his wheel and walk away. The thief then gets on and rides the wheel off, while no one suspects he is stealing the wheel.

INJURIES ARE NOT FATAL

Thrown from an automobile in a collision with a laundry wagon near Third and Clark streets early this morning, John Rountree, a prominent business man of Sharpe, Marshall county, received a slight fracture of the skull and had bruises on the face and body.

Mr. Rountree came to Paducah last night to join a crowd of prospectors on a trip to southern Texas, but before leaving the city he received a message that his wife was ill and fired an automobile from Foreman Brothers to make the trip to Sharpe.

At Clark street Albert Garner, the chauffeur who was driving the car started to cross the street to avoid a Home laundry wagon and in crossing the street car track a tire of one of the rear wheels of the machine caught between the rail and the brick pavement and was jerked off, the wheel causing the machine to turn directly into the laundry wagon. Mr. Rountree was pitched out, his head striking the brick streets and he was picked up unconscious and carried into the Rose Dye Works and Dr. J. D. Robertson summoned, who applied temporary relief measures and had the injured man removed to the St. Nicholas hotel. Garner escaped uninjured, managing to stay in the seat by holding to the steering wheel.

Driver Watts, of the laundry wagon, was also uninjured, but the harness was stripped from the horse.

Library Sold.
Attorney Frank Burns has bought the law library of the late Judge W. D. Greer for his office in the Trueheart building. Mr. Burns has also just placed an order for new books to cost $500 and will have one of the most complete libraries in the city.

PAY CAR HERE

This is pay day for the Illinois Central railroad and the employees were paid off this morning when the car arrived from Mounds, Ill. About the usual amount of money was turned loose, as the effect of cutting the hours in the machine department does not come in on this month's pay. Tonight the merchants will be open as usual to enjoy a good retail trade.

BEARER OF CONVERSATION WATERS PINCHED

While lugging several gallon jugs of "old corn" down Broadway, D. E. Doran, a young man from the desert of Mayfield, was arrested by Patrolman Elmus Carter today for carrying a pistol. A number of thirsty ones of Graves county made up money to get some liquid refreshments, and as Doran had been sick and unable to work, he was elected to come to Paducah and purchase the booze. Although he said he was sick he was carrying the jugs as well as the pistol, which got him in bad. Doran said he guessed his pals would like to drink water until he served out his time so that he could carry the jugs home. He was fined $25 and costs and ten days in jail.

established this convention of 980 delegates and their alternates, chosen by the Republican electorate from every State and Territory within the confines of the Republic, meets in this high council to submit the record of its achievements to the critical review of the American people and make fresh avowal of its faith in the principles and policies of the Republican party.

The framers of the Federal Constitution wisely provided that all governmental power should be lodged with and retained by the people, and that their chosen representatives selected to administer the affairs of Government should be vested with only a limited tenure of official life, and at regular and stated periods render account of their stewardship to their rightful sovereign, to the end that the administration of public affairs, through the instrumentality of individuals and parties, should at all times conform to and reflect the dominant judgment of the American people.

To this end the constitutional term of the Executive office is limited to four years, the senatorial to six, with a third of its membership subject to change every two years, while the service of Members of the National House of Representatives, the immediate and direct sponsors of the people, is restricted to the brief period of four years. Thus in this free representative Government all power over officials, parties, and policies rests at all times with the supreme electorate, confirming the declaration of Abraham Lincoln that this is in fact a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

In the approaching election, a President and Vice-President of the United States, a full membership of the House of Representatives, consisting of 392 Members and Delegates, and 30 United States senators from as many different States are to be chosen. The result, involving as it does the control of both the executive and legislative branches of the National Government, with the opportunity for a change of parties and policies, is of transcendent importance and far-reaching consequences, involving the States and the nation.

Four years ago the Republican Party in national convention submitted the record of its achievements to the American people, announced its policies for the future, and, invoking continuance of public favor, placed in nomination for the office of President and Vice-President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt and Charles W. Fairbanks, who were elected and the platform approved by a popular vote of 7,623,485, a record unexampled in the history of political parties since the foundation of the Government, receiving the endorsement of 32 States out of the 48, with but 13 in opposition.

In view of this endorsement, it becomes pertinent and opportune to inquire, What has the Republican Party done in the last four years of governmental control—in many respects the most remarkable and brilliant in the history of the party and the country—to forfeit public confidence or create distrust—in its capacity for future administration? Although some untoward and unforeseen conditions have beset the Republic during the last four years, yet these have been met and overcome with alacrity and courage, and the country has marched steadily onward in its hitherto course of industrial triumphs. The wise and beneficial legislation of the Republican Party during the long years of its ascendancy and administration of national affairs laid the foundation for the public weal so securely that no disquieting condition, not even a temporary panic, which necessarily touches the main-spring of industrial life, could arrest the country's resistless advance.

Since the last national Republican convention, four years ago, our population has increased from 81½ millions to 87½ millions, while 4 millions of immigrants from every quarter of the globe have found welcome to our shores and protection under our flag.

During the last four years our flocks and herds have increased in value from 2,998 millions to 4,331 millions.

The value of our farm products from 5,917 millions to 7,412 millions.

The output of coal from 314 million tons to 429 millions.

Our product of gold from 74 millions of dollars to 90 millions.

The accumulation in savings banks of 2,815 million dollars in 1903 was augmented to 3,495 millions in 1907.

The deposits in all banks in 1903, aggregating 9,553 million dollars, reaches the fabulous sum of 13 billion dollars in 1907, an increase of 3,546 million dollars in four years.

Two millions of spindles in our cotton mills were added, and the domestic cotton used in our factories in 1907 amounted to over 5 million bales, as against 3,924,000 bales in 1903.

The importations of raw silk to supply our mills increased from a little over 15 million pounds in 1903 to nearly 19 million pounds in 1907. In spite of the disquieting conditions incident to the regulation of rates on interstate railroads, 20 thousand miles of new track have been added in the last four years.

The tonnage of vessels passing through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal has increased from 28 millions in 1903 to 44 millions in 1907.

The output of pig iron, the barometer of trade, in 1907 was 25,781,000 tons, as against a little over 18 million tons in 1903, and our exports of iron and steel increased from $96,420,000 in 1903 to $181,531,000 in 1907.

The cotton fabrics wrought in American mills from our domestic fiber consumed in 1903 3,924 million bales, while in 1907 they required more than 5 millions.

Our exports of manufactures advanced from 468 million dollars in 1903 to 740 millions in 1907.

Our imports of raw material for use in domestic manufacture increased from 330 million dollars in 1903 to 447 millions in 1907, while our exports in the calendar year of 1907 were nearly 2 billion dollars, an increase of 30 per cent over those of four years ago.

The mills and factories temporarily closed by reason of financial disturbances are rapidly resuming operations, calling labor back to profitable employment.

The record of material activity in field and forest, factory and farm, mines and mills during the last four years might be indefinitely extended, but this is quite sufficient to show the development and robust condition of our industrial life.

The nine great executive departments of the government, through which the head of the nation speaks and acts, have advanced with steady and resolute steps within the sphere of their activities, presenting a record of achievements during the last four years of intelligent and progressive administration unexampled in the history of the government.

The Agricultural department has continued to work its promoting the interest of the farmers diversifying their products; supplying new and valuable seeds and plants especially adapted to our climate and soil; eradicating diseases which infest and destroy animal and vegetable life; developing the beet-sugar industry from 40 millions to 480 million tons, valued at $3 million dollars; enforcing the pure food law, enhancing the value of farm products, conserving the health of all our people; distributed during the year 1907 nearly 17 million bulletins; provided for over 2,000 scientists to gather information for the benefit of agriculture; protected our forest reserves from the ravages of fire; converted the arid lands and waste places into fertile fields and blossoming gardens; extended our producing area for grains westward into the dry regions, so that nearly 50 million bushels a year are being grown in regions which have heretofore been unproductive, and in every way possible conserving the natural resources of the country for ourselves and the generations to come after us.

The Department of Commerce and Labor, organized in 1903, has been active and potential in extending our commerce and protecting our labor. It has dispatched messengers to foreign countries, particularly to South America and the Orient, to learn the needs and tastes of the people, with a view to increasing our trade. The exports, which in 1903 aggregated 1,392 million dollars, will, it is estimated, in 1908 aggregate about 1,900 millions, showing an increase practically to every country.

Its Bureau of Statistics has established a system of recording the internal commerce of the country on the Great Lakes and at important interior centers. Its bureau of manufactures has brought about more intimate relations between the manufacturers of United States and buyers abroad, and, by bringing purchasers into closer touch with dealers, aided in the extension of foreign markets for our manufactures.

Congress

It has cooperated in the beneficent work of arbitration to avert or terminate strikes and promote the interests of our laboring people. Congress has wisely cooperated with and supplemented the work of this Department by enacting a law for the better protection of seamen and to prevent their being induced to ship through false representations.

It has provided for an investigation into the conditions of working women and children; it has amended and strengthened the law to prevent the importation of contract labor, and provided a plan for the further exclusion of that class of Asiatic immigration which enters into competition with American workmen. It has enacted a law limiting the hours of labor of employees engaged in railway train service and of railway telegraphers.

The Congress just closed reenacted the law passed by the Fifty-ninth Congress to conform to the opinion of the Supreme Court, making common carriers liable for accidents to their employees engaged in interstate commerce. It has enacted a law for the further protection of the life of railroad employees in their hazardous employment. It has provided compensation for laborers and mechanics who may be injured in the service of the Government, and making a provision for their families in the event of their being killed.

In the course of their employment. It has enacted a model child-labor law for the District of Columbia. It has directed a thorough investigation into the working conditions of the employees of the telegraph and telephone companies, doing interstate business; and, in response to the urgent appeal from both capital and labor, Congress, before its adjournment, appropriated $150,000 for an investigation into the cause of mine accidents, with a view of promoting the safety of workers in our mines.

It is within bounds to say that no previous sessions of Congress have displayed a more active or intelligent interest in the needs of the wage-earners than the past three sessions, nor has there heretofore in the same length of time been as much important and progressive legislation in the interests of this class of our fellow-citizens.

Interior Department.

The work of the Department of the Interior has been prosecuted under the present Administration with intelligence and vigor. During the past year over 2 million acres of coal lands have been restored to the public domain. During the last five years fences unlawfully closing public lands have been removed from 3,519,533 acres, and steps are now being taken to remove such inclosures 3,750,000 other acres.

During the past five years 551,601 have been collected for timber trespass upon public land, and other judgments have been collected on claims compromised, yielding $510,681.

During the last five years 782 fraudulent land entries have been canceled, restoring to the public domain 1,259,840 acres. From July 1, 1902, to May, 1908, deeds for 169 acres each have been granted to 275,333 homestead settlers on the public domain, covering 44,053,280 acres.

Since July 1, 1906, 171,047 original homestead and desert-land entries have been made, embracing 28,371,409 acres, carrying out the avowed policy of the President to prevent the monopoly of our public lands and place a family on every 160 acres. It is estimated by conservative engineers that the reclamation act will bring into cultivation and occupancy a quarter million acres of land now desert and uninhabitable, to be fashioned into farms for our people; and this vast area will be brought into cultivation without entailing the loss of a single dollar to the National Treasury, as the land reclaimed is assessed and the owner must return to the Treasury the cost of reclamation.

Under this act the Government has constructed 1,881 miles of canals, 56 tunnels, and 611 miles of wagon roads into heretofore inaccessible regions, the expenditures in this work aggregating nearly $1,000,000 per month. As a result of the operations of the Reclamation Service eight new towns have been established, 100 miles of branch railroads have been constructed, and 14,000 people have already taken up their residence in the desert.

The work of the Pension Bureau has been brought up-to-date. The labor has increased, but the expense of administration during the last four years has decreased nearly $700,000. The force has been reduced from 2,000 to 1,400, and yet the number of certificates issued during the last twelve months has been greater than any previous twelve months since the Bureau was established, nearly 400,000 having been issued during the past year.

The act of June 27, 1890, was the first disability law in the history of the world granting a pension to soldiers and sailors because of their need of help, without requiring proof of disability incurred in service in that line of duty, and the act of February 6, 1907, granting pensions to all soldiers and sailors who served in the Civil war and in the Mexican war, are measures of justice and generosity unexampled in the annals of a grateful people.

The total number of pensioners on the rolls is now slightly in excess of 950,000, and the average amount paid out in pensions in a month is $138,155,412 were paid to pensioners.

During the past four years the Post-Office Department has continued its beneficent work in the interest of all the people, until on the 1st of April, 1908, free rural delivery was in operation on 39,037 routes from 16,393 post-offices; complete in 793 counties, saving $9,500,000 in the discontinuance of post-offices; and in every way carrying the blessings of the free-delivery system to our rural population, and thus promoting the happiness and contentment of the people.

Ship Subsidy.

A measure providing for postal savings banks, recommended by the Postmaster-General, has secured the favorable action of the Senate Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads, and will undoubtedly receive the favorable action of Congress at its next session. It is to be regretted that a measure to provide for the carrying of our mails to the Orient and the South American countries in American ships should have failed, but its passage in the near future is confidently expected. The confession of Secretary Root upon his return from the South American countries is startling. "During the past summer I entered all the great ports of the southern continent and I saw only one ship besides the cruiser that carried me flying the American flag."

Further saying:

"The best way to travel between the United States and South America is to go by way of Europe, crossing the Atlantic twice."

"In the year ending June 30, 1905 there entered the port of Rio de Janeiro steamers and sailing vessels, 120 flying the flag of Austro-Hungary, 142 of Norway, 165 of Italy, 264 of Argentina, 349 of France, 657 of German, 1,785 of Great Britain, and only 2 steamers and 7 sailing vessels from the United States, 2 of which were in distress. Not one American steamship runs to a South American port beyond the Caribbean."

Secretary Root concludes: "This woeful deficiency in the means to carry on and enlarge our South American trade is but a part of the general decline and feebleness of the American merchant marine, which has reduced us from carrying over 90 per cent of our export trade in our own ships to the carriage of 9 per cent of that trade, and dependence upon foreign shipowners for the carriage of 91 per cent."

This humiliating condition should stimulate the American people to renewed and determined effort to re-establish a merchant marine, until we are able to carry American mails and American merchandise under the American flag to every part of the world.

The work of reorganizing and promoting the efficiency of the Army has gone steadily forward until we have a military force not only sufficient to maintain peace within our own borders, but capable of resisting any possible force that could be sent against us. The establishment of a General Staff of the Army has made action by it more prompt and effective than ever before, and has served to give to the policy of improvement in the Army a prominent character.

IMMIGRATION.

Immigration is a pet theme of certain calamity howlers, and yet the facts about immigration belie their every prediction of woe. Our institutions grow dear to them who naturally threatened by the influx of inferior nationalities, while in their own lives they often execute the responsibilities of republican citizenship in a way that does more to discredit our institutions than the influence of aspiring foreigners.

To such citizens it will be a surprise to know that immigrants and their descendants now greatly outnumber in the United States, the original population of the thirteen colonies, and their descendants. This proves that the perpetuity of the republic does not depend on the continued propagation of the native

American element. It also proves that our institutions find their vitality in the cohesive power of fraternal and enlightened ideals, and if these ideals are kept pure, generations may come and go, and nationality may succeed nationally without our institutions deteriorating.

Out of our population of 70,000,000

today just 29,000,000 are the descendants of the inhabitants of the country at the time of the Revolution.

The remaining 41,000,000 are immigrants or the descendants of immi-

only one kind of song—the love song. The sex-note is as conspicuous in all our theatricals, and in our literature, "the sex largest sellers" will usually be love stories.

Our foreign critics make a familiar mistake of vision, which thinks that American men have gone backward because American women have advanced. American men are as virile as any nationality, and our achievements in the face of this supposed handicap, prove that we have not suffered from the enlargement of woman's sphere. We are simply opening up a hitherto untouched vein of wealth in broadening our conception of woman's possibilities.

KY. DELEGATION

Taft's managers, and they have prepared to meet any move the Kentuckian may make with a proxy in his hand. It is said that in the convention, which assembled today, California will lose a vote by reason of the enforced absence of a delegate whose alternate cannot represent him.

Room for Willson.

Gov. Augustus E. Willson's boom for vice president is persistent among the Kentucky delegates. The pardon of Caleb Powers and Jim Howard are responsible for this burst of popularity. Some Republicans who know the Kentucky governor intimately, say that he is a sly old fox. They declare that in acting on the applications for the pardons within a few hours after the Democratic state convention had adjourned in Kentucky, thus escaping the wrath of the Kentucky Democracy and at the same time shooting out the pardons within a few days before the Republican national convention was held, he made a political stroke.

Gov. Willson arrived this morning and all the delegates want to see and shake the hand of the man who pardoned Powers and Howard. A large number of the federal officeholders and men who contributed to the fund with which the prisoners fought their cases in the Kentucky courts are here and they think Gov. Willson delivered the goods.

Kentucky Republicans of all persuasions say that if there is the slightest chance to put the governor in the running with Taft they will stand by him and make the fight of their lives. With Powers and Howard free men by Gov. Willson's signature, the increased popularity of the governor among the party leaders in the state is very apparent here. Although Kentucky was the scene of perhaps the bitterest warfare between the Taft and anti-Taft forces, it is a fact that if Gov. Willson's boom does not reach proportions to justify a fight, Kentucky will favor Vice President Fairbanks' renomination.

Even the most ardent men on the Kentucky delegation say Kentucky should stand by Fairbanks, although they fought the Indiana man for the presidential nomination. The Taft men join hands in saying the party in Kentucky should not forget Indiana's protection of Taylor and Finley and the vice president's tour of the state for Willson and the state ticket.

Fairbanks May Lose Out.

It appears that the race for vice president, which is really the big show now, is between Fairbanks and some New Yorker, either Cortelyou or Representative Sherman. There is a chance of the long Hoosier statesman going into private life. Dolliver's fight on the liquor interests has aroused an intense opposition to him, and it is believed he is out of the going. All Kentucky distillers know what the effect of the Hepburn-Dolliver bill would have been on their business had the bill become a law. All personal liberty leagues are raising a row over Dolliver's candidacy for the vice presidency.

All yesterday the fight against Rich and P. Ernst for national committee man boiled up to spilling point and then simmered down again. Early Sunday Senator-elect W. O. Bradley, in his apartments in the Annex, had been visited by Kentucky postmasters and others, who assured him that they would use all their influence in their several districts to defeat the Covington man. E. T. Franks, collector at Owensboro, was assured that Delegates John P. Haswell and R. M. Jackson, of the Fourth district, were ready to vote for him for national committee man, but he could not make up his mind that he wanted it. Postmaster Frank Fisher, of Paducah, loomed up as a candidate, and was said to have the support of Frank P. Hitchcock.

Then Collector Maurice Galvin, of Covington; W. J. Cochran, of Mayfield; Congressman J. B. Bennett and others blew in, and at once they snuffed the conflict from afar and all agreed that it was Postmaster Fisher, of Paducah, who was responsible for the fight.

Committee Assignment.

Caucuses were held last night, and this morning, and it would appear that the following will be honored by the Kentucky delegation: Gov. Augustus E. Willson, chairman of delegation; member resolution committee, W. Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville; member credentials committee, W. D. Cochran, of Mayfield; vice chairman of delegation, Morris B. Belknap, of Louisville.

Kentucky headquarters are at the Stratford hotel, where Gov. Willson is stopping. He early enrolled his name in the delegates' register, and Bradley, who wandered in last night, was asked to do the same. He declined, however, and wrote his name in the visitors' book.

THE VANISHING FLEETS

By ROY NORTON

ILLUSTRATED BY A. WEIL

Copyright, 1907, by The American Book Company.

Puzzled and overcome, the patrolmen took temporary charge of the ship, while a boat hurried away from the miniature flotilla, carrying a detailed report to the admiralty, where the news was received with amazement no less than that which had brought the crowd on the embankment. Subordinates of departments called for their tardy superiors, telephone bells jangled, and British phlegm gave way to excitement; but even in this remarkable state precedent was maintained and routine observed, so that from man to man, going constantly upward, the report reached the first lord of the admiralty. Then for the first time it was learned that this high and mighty official was missing from his home and had been summoned to the palace in the night. No delay could be brooked in an event so startling, and with due ceremony inquiries were instituted for him. This caused an investigation in gray old Buckingham, which spread until it came to the head of government, when it became known that not only was the naval officer missing, but no less a personage than the king of England as well.

In great disasters by sea or land where swift death ravages, men cry aloud in their excitement and distress, but when a calamity threatens a nation and a king is involved, they seek to hide their emotions. Hence it was that in the palace men came hurriedly together without words to those around, and in whispers expressed their anxiety. It was recalled with alarm that the kaiser had left his palace in an equally unceremonious manner, decoyed by a stranger, and enticed into the night. Nor was his fate as uncertain or with more ground for question, because there he had been traced to a carriage which had driven away. The king of England had gone into his garden, and the guards at the gates swore he had not passed the portals, which they watched. And for their pains they were doubted and placed under temporary detention until the king should return to prove that they were not in a conspiracy against the state.

Perhaps the alarm would have been less keen were it not for the tale of the kaiser; but the cases were so parallel that the conclusion was instantly formed that England's monarch was probably in as great jeopardy as his fellow ruler who had now been gone for many days. The nobles looked at one another askance, and asked what times were these when no person might be so august as to be immune from seizure. Where was the limit to be reached? What could be expected next? Was there no possible protection even for the heads of government and society?

In the offices of the admiralty those of more or less prominence in the department held a conference and detailed men to take charge of the Dreadnought. There could be no attempt to rehabilitate her at that time, inasmuch as it would be impossible ever again to bring her into service without destroying a span of the bridge below; therefore no coroner's inquest could have convened with more solemnity than did those men who took charge of and boarded this great dead thing of the sea.

A derelict cast upon an open sandy beach offered more chance of salvage than the greatest vessel of the greatest navy of the world, nosed in the mud and practically wallowed in. And while she lay in this state of helplessness there was forming round English shores a formidable flotilla of other war vessels flying the British flag, which had been summoned from all waters of the globe to protect the mother country from German invasion or if need arose gallantly to seek death beds in the sea in the attempt to fend off the American terror should it be directed against the island ruler of the waves.

As they advanced, captains of this great navy arrived in London in response to urgent summons and hastened to the admiralty. One and all they were asked to pass expert opinion on the condition of the Dreadnought, and offer a solution of the methods used to bring her to that singular anchorage in the river; but like children groping in the mist, they could formulate no tenable theory nor give any lucid explanation. They looked at each other in amazement, wagged their heads and admitted their inability. Plague would have left dead men at their posts, or battle would have left more serious scars than the cutting away of the fighting guns and wrecking of the stacks; and even then who would navigate her to home waters, and what could account for her presence in a place where even a small sea-going craft could not go? If that nation in the west had a submarine of terrific speed and unknown power it might perhaps destroy a ship; but by what means could it force it under or over a bridge of solid masonry and steel?

And so the men of the sea passed down and back while the people of London spent the time in trying to see the latest evidence of disaster, took turns in crowding to the embankment, and then went to their homes. Business came to a halt, shops were unopened and desks were closed. In the government offices men moved helplessly, and in homes throughout the country families sat within doors gravely discussing the latest manifestation of power.

Nor was the public aware that in higher circles another cause for anxiety had been uncovered, which was nothing less than the disappearance of the prime minister. A king, a prime minister and the first lord of the admiralty taken at one time! It was sufficient to make others of prominence look at one another questioning when their turn might come and what the end would be. No one was safe in this great crisis, when thrones tottered on their settings and men were whisked away in the night, when the most powerful vessels of war created by all the wisdom of science and ingenuity of invention might be dominated and handled like toys.

There was no ground for belief that any power other than the United States might have been the controlling spirit in this long series of untoward events, but from that nation came no word, only a silence more menacing than the thunder of distant guns, and more terrible and ominous than an open display of invincible arms. It took no great stretch of imagination to people the air with phalanx on phalanx of stern and implacable foemen bent on invasion when the time seemed ripe. A country which could haunt the world was capable of anything, and it was not believable that she was acting without a purpose. But what means did she take? What would be her next move? How had she accomplished those victories already scored upon her tally sheet? Only one hope for partial explanation remained, and that was based upon the return to sanity of a madmen sailor who had come to them on a life raft from the unknown, as the only witness of a disaster, and the only living link.

And even while the anxious officials thought of him a group of surgeons and specialists were standing round a cot in a hospital watching this man breathe his last. Now that his importance had increased a hundredfold Death was intervening and sealing his lips. He passed away as silently as he had been found, his jumbled wits giving no new and tangible clue. Speechless he had been picked up on a life raft in mid ocean, and speechless he voyaged out into another world.

Night fell over London, unfolding a stricken city where none came upon the streets and men within doors whispered to each other, dreading what the morrow might bring forth. The heart of Britain, beating with dogged determination to the last, was broken. America was the master of fate, and could deal out its awards or blows with the inexorableness of a god.

Woodmen of the World will not attend the unveiling of Sam Beadles' monument at Wingo on next Sunday week from Paducah, as satisfactory traffic arrangements can not be made. To reach Wingo they would have to leave here at midnight Saturday and return at midnight Sunday, which would make a wearing trip. Some of the younger members will go from Paducah, as they do not mind the owl railroad schedule. The lodge at Wingo will have charge of the unveiling ceremonies of the former Paducah patrolman and jailer-elect.

MONTREAL AND QUEBEC.

A veritable edition de luxe amongst railroad pamphlets has just been issued by the Grand Trunk to proclaim amongst tourists the glories of the cities of Montreal and Quebec. The brochure is beautifully printed, and generally arranged in the artistic style of earlier days, when the ornamentation of a volume was regarded as an important incident to its presentation of reading matter. It is also very well written, and gives an interesting description of the two most interesting cities in Canada, with many illustrations from photographs that have not hitherto been published. Sent to any address on receipt of a two-cent stamp. Apply to G. W. Vaux, 917 Merchants Loan and Trust Building, Chicago, Ill.

COUNCIL BOARDS ARE TO CONSIDER HIGH LICENSE

Paducah's need of revenue may be helped out now by the advance of the saloon license from $150 a year to $500 a year. The ninety days since the legislature passed the act expired last night and today the general council of cities of the second class is free to fix the license up to $500. It is probable that a called session of the council will be held before July 1, when all of the licenses are renewed. At the special session it is probable that City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., will present an ordinance fixing a license of $250 a year on dealers selling malt beverages containing alcohol in quantities less than 2 per cent, while regular saloon license may be $500 a year.

Mayor Smith is a hearty advocate of raising the liquor licenses of Paducah to $500 in order to control the sale of the liquor. The power rests with the general council in fixing the exact amount, but it is the general belief that the maximum of $500 will be charged.

In fixing a license of $250 a year on dealers retailing malt beverages with a taste like beer, but weaker, the city expects to get much revenue and reach a class of dealers that have not been affected by a city license. No doubt the special session of the council will be called and the ordinances passed this month so that they will be in effect July 1, when the saloon keepers will renew their licenses. The issuance of a license to retail liquor does not include the privilege to sell beverages of less strength than 2 per cent alcohol.

BODY OF CAS SMITH FOUND SATURDAY.

Graves County Man Who Disappeared Two Weeks Ago—Supposed Accident.

The body of Cas Smith, who was drowned last week in the east fork of Clark's river, was found lodged against the fish trap of a negro three miles down stream Saturday, says the Mayfield Monitor. The body had been missing for several days, and nothing could be found of it until the negro went to his trap early Saturday morning and found the body. It was in a badly decomposed condition and was covered with mud as the waters have been very high for the past several days.

Smith left his home more than a week ago to go to a neighbor's to borrow some milk, and en route he had to cross a creek. Nothing was seen of him alive after that, but his bucket was found lodged against a drift a short distance down stream two days later.

News of Theatres

The beginning of the second week's engagement of the Hutton-Bailey Stock company at Wallace park has started out very favorably, and every one is unanimous in declaring it to be the best company that has ever played the park. There is a briskness about all their performances that makes it enjoyable to all. There are specialties between the acts which takes up all the usual long tressome "waits." This company has not burdened us with "blood and thunder" plays, but instead has given us good wholesome moral plays. Last night the bill was "The Gambler of the West," and was one of the best plays yet presented. Tonight "The Flower of the Ranch" will be the bill. This is a play on the order of "The Girl From the Golden West." "Heir to the Hoorah," etc. Specialties are changed every night. Prices will remain 10c and 20c this week.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

In home talk
"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.
"Bright's Disease" is inflammation of the kidneys with albumen.
In each case the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people will get well!!
True—because inflammation of the kidneys, unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day—up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation of the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed dignities to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent of all cases. It is the only thing known that contrains inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

DISEASED BRAIN

Believed to Be Step Forward in Brain Treatment—May Save Many Unfortunates.

Physicians all over the country will be interested in the case of Lonnie Hines, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hines, of Massac in the county, who was operated on for a brain disease by Drs. Q. L. Shelton, of Massac, H. P. Sights and C. L. Johnson, of Paducah, last Wednesday. Following an attack of typhoid fever the girl had grown worse from a brain affection until she became unmanageable of her surroundings and screamed at intervals with a force that meant death if not relieved. On consultation with the Paducah physicians it was decided that the skull was pressing on the brain causing the distressing symptoms, and an operation to relieve the pressure was decided upon. If this they were only partly guided by medical science as much of their undertaking was an experiment. Since the operation, the wonderful improvement in the patient convinces the doctors that a step forward in the treatment of brain diseases, has been made.

A small button was removed from the side of the head, and the theory of brain pressure was proven correct by the protrusion of the membrane. But this was not enough, and in cutting into the membrane they could not be guided by science. It was done, however, and the outflow of a yellowish liquid proved their theory of a diseased condition in the brain. The girl is now rapidly recovering and the doctors believe that many similar cases that were sent to the asylum may be saved by the same operation.

FIRST MEETING

IN NEW CAPITAL IS BY EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

Meets in Frankfort Today With Large Attendance—Governor Delivers Welcome Address.

Frankfort, Ky., June 16.—The thirty-seventh annual session of the Kentucky Educational association convened here today, and already the advance guard of 1,900 teachers from all over the state are in attendance. President C. C. Adams, of Williams-town, will get in tonight and open headquarters. The association will be in session three days. A most extensive program has been arranged for the gathering which will be one of the most pretentious of the kind ever held in Kentucky.

It is the plan to hold the first session this morning in the new capitol building. This will be the first public assemblage to convene in the new statehouse, and those in charge deem it most fitting that such an assemblage should be one representative of the highest educational interests of the commonwealth.

Gov. Willson delivered the address of welcome to the teachers on behalf of the state, while Superintendent of Public Instruction J. G. Crabbe spoke on behalf of the educational department of the welcoming address on behalf of Frankfort. President Adams is down for a response.

Fine Cigars in a Fine Case

CONFESSED NIGHT RIDER ON STAND

Burnett Phelps, whose trial was started yesterday but was stopped on account of the serious illness of his child, appeared in the court room and the hearing of the evidence in the prosecution against him begun.

Nat Frizzell, one of the negroes whipped, was the first witness called and in his evidence stated that he recognized Phelps, the defendant, Amos Stringer, Fred Hollen and Tom McClain among the mob of 25 that visited him.

Alec Perry who was also whipped, testified that he recognized only Fred Hollen.

Dr. Bob Overbey, of Birmingham, who attended the negroes and dressed their bleeding backs after they had been unmercifully whipped, testified and his testimony evidently had great weight with the jury and was given close attention by those in the court room.

The recital of the simple stories of the negroes who were whipped was also given rapid attention by a court room well filled with spectators. That the negroes were still frightened and intimidated was shown by their conduct on the stand and their testimony was drawn from them by the prosecuting attorneys.

Dan Odum testified that he saw Phelps, Hollen and two other men one of whom he thought was Wick Tarry, at the point where telephone wires were cut before the shooting. He saw the same men returning from the direction of Scruggs' house and heard Phelps say in passing that “old man Scruggs is badly hurt and may die.”

Odum said he was hiding in the bushes to escape the mob when he overheard the conversation.

GIVES WARNING AGAINST PASSES

Commerce Commission Threatens Carriers With Prosecution.

Washington, June 16.—Violations of the anti-pass provision of the railroad rate law have been reported to the interstate commerce commission and the commission issued a drastic order threatening offending roads with prosecution. The order says:

“Many abuses in the issuance and use of passes have been discovered by the commission, which it is desired to correct, and to this end, and because of the misinterpretation of the law by carriers generally, the commission at this time makes announcement that it will recommend the indictment and prosecution of all carriers and persons issuing passes to or allowing the use of passes by any persons not included within the designated classes to whom free transportation may be given by carriers.”

AGREEMENT IN PHILIPPINES.

Insular Commission and Assembly

Get Together on Appropriations.

Manila, June 15.—After many extended and apparently hopeless conferences the insular commission and the Philippine assembly have finally arrived at an agreement upon the general appropriation bill, which, it is believed, both the commission and assembly will ratify. The compromise measure appropriates 16,800,000 pesos, the assembly making a concession of nearly 1,500,000 pesos. The appropriations agreed upon in the bill are practically the same on the actual expenditures last year.

The commission declined to assent to the reduction in salaries and the consolidation of some of the bureaus, as proposed by the assembly. The personnel of the various bureaus and departments remains unchanged.

Obituary.

Died, on the night of June 12, 1908, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harris. May God comfort their sorrowing hearts, especially the mother, who now feels her loss is irreparable. May He help her to become reconciled and bye and bye look with glad eyes to other shores, where her baby is waiting for her, not with the pitiful pain-racked body her loving eyes last gazed upon, but in all the beauty and health which was the pride of her fond heart. Another little lamb has gone. To dwell with Him who gave. Another little darling babe. Is sheltered in the grave. God needed one more angel child. Amidst His shining band. And so He bent with a loving smile. And clasped your darling's hand. A FRIEND.

cers of the army after graduation gives to our officers a higher training in military science and practical needs of actual war than the officers of any other army. By the division of the Artillery Corps into the Field and Coast Artillery the Army has been separated into two branches—the mobile army and that part needed for the maintenance of the coast defenses. Work upon the coast defense has proceeded both upon the mainland and in the dependencies upon a well-devised scheme for their completion. The time is near at hand when we can rest secure that both our mainland coast and our dependencies will be proof against the sudden capture of any seaport in which the nation's flag is flying.

Most important progress has been made in the development of the National Militia as an aid to the Regular Army of the United States. By well-directed legislation and by the activity of the proper bureaus of the war department, for the first time in history of the country adequate steps are being taken to bring about an approximation of armament, equipment, and discipline of the Militia to those of the Regular Army. The importance of this development for national defense can not be overestimated.

The Medical Department has rendered most valuable service in stamping out yellow fever, without which it would have been impossible to construct the Panama Canal. The Army has aided the stricken people of San Francisco, saving them from starvation and death due to the earthquake and fire with which that city was visited.

Insular Work.

Another and most remarkable instance of the efficiency of the Army has been the work done by it during the year of its stay in Cuba as a force for the maintenance of the tranquillization of that island. Not a single report of any abuse by officer or man has reached the Department during the entire time.

The management of our outlying possessions under Republican administration has been attended with remarkable success. Under American occupation and control the commerce of the island of Porto Rico, which in the most prosperous days of Spanish rule aggregated but 22 million dollars, was, in 1907, 56 million. The production of sugar has advanced from 109,000 tons to 204,000 tons, valued at 15 million dollars.

When we took possession of the island there was but one school building owned by the Government. Now there are over 80, built and under construction, and the number of pupils in the public schools in 70,000. Peace and order prevail throughout the island, and a representative is accorded to United States.

In the Philippine Islands the people have been given a legislative body, the full power of conducting their own municipal and provincial governments, the establishment of their own tariff system, the direction of the postal service, and indeed greater rights and powers than those possessed by any other people subject to our sovereignty. A sound and reliable currency system has been established, schools so enlarged that the number of primary schools now aggregate between 3,000 and 4,000, with a total enrollment in March last of 479,978. Post-offices have been established throughout the archipelago, a free delivery service in the city of Manila, practically 10,000 miles of telegraph and cable lines are in operation, and several hundred miles of new railway are under construction or contract; while less than 10 per cent of the Government employees and municipal officers are Americans, and of the police and constabulary force 98 per cent are Filipinos.

The work of civilizing and uplifting the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands has gone forward with remarkable progress. The President of the United States aptly summarizes the whole matter as follows:

"No great civilized power has ever managed with such wisdom and disinterestedness the affairs of a people committed by the accident of war to its hands. If we had followed the advice of the misguided persons who wished to turn the islands loose and let them suffer whatever fate might befall them, they would already have passed through a period of complete and bloody chaos, and would now undoubtedly be the possession of some other power which there is every reason to believe would not have done as we have done—that is, would not have striven to teach them how to govern themselves or to have developed them as we have developed them, primarily in their own interests. Save only our attitude toward Cuba, I question whether there is a brighter page in the annals of international dealing between the strong and the weak than the page which tells us our doings in the Philippines.

"Peace prevails" throughout the islands today in a greater degree than ever in the history of the islands, either under Spanish or American rule, and the agriculture is nowhere now impeded by the fear on the part of the farmer of the incursion of predatory bands. Under the policy already stated, inaugurated by the instructions of President McKinley to Secretary Root, in reference to the establishment of a temporary government in the Philippines, a community consisting of 7,000,000 people, inhabiting 300 different islands, many of whom were in open rebellion against the Government of the United States for four years, with all the disturbances following from robber and predatory bands, which broke out from time to time, due to local causes, has been brought to a state of profound peace and tranquillity in which the people as a whole are loyally supporting the Government in the maintenance of order."

The resignation of President Palma of the Republic of Cuba and the failure of the Cuban Congress to elect a successor left that island without a government at a time when great disorder prevailed, and the President deemed it his duty to establish a provisional government, restore order, administer law and justice, but coupled with the announcement that this action was preliminary to the reestablishment of orderly government on the island. The threatened insurrections were averted, peace and good order restored, and the development of production, transportation, and commerce resumed. Public order has been perfectly kept, and at no time for a century has the island been so free from marauding bands as under American provisional administration. Local and national elections are to be held and the government again turned over to the Cuban people.

Our Navy has been strengthened until today we hold a second place among the naval powers in the world, our fleet of battle ships grows triumphantly around the globe, receiving the friendly salutations of the nations, conveying peace and good will to all the people.

The Department of Justice has prosecuted its work with fidelity and diligence, seeking to prevent violations of Federal law and to mete out meritorious punishment to the guilty. Its most important work during the past four years has been to defend the soundness of the positions taken by it relating to proceedings under the Sherman Anti-trust Law and the Interstate Commerce Law, by carrying proceedings thus inaugurated through the various courts and to a final determination by the Supreme Court of the United States that the constitutionality of these acts might be adjudicated and settled.

The effort of the National Government to invoke that provision of the Federal Constitution which empowers Congress to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the States presented problems of greatest perplexity, the solution of which has been attended with no little difficulty.

S.S.S. CURES SKIN DISEASES

When the blood is pure and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth, and free from all blemishes and eruptions; but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation, its presence is quickly manifested by some form of skin disease. The skin receives its necessary nourishment and strength from the blood. When, however, this vital fluid becomes a humor-laden stream, it can no longer preserve the healthy, natural appearance of the skin, but by its acid, impure nature continually irritates and inflames the delicate tissues and fibres and keeps the cuticle in a diseased and disfigured condition. External applications cannot reach the blood, and therefore are beneficial only for their ability to reduce inflammation, and assist in keeping the parts clean. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be purified of the humors that are causing the trouble. S. S. S. drives out the humors from the blood so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a healthy, cooling stream. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and removes every particle of impure matter, all acids and humors, and restores the blood to its normal, pure condition, thereby curing every form of skin disease or affection. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

annual report for 1907, says: "It means much for the present and more for the future that the principles of this law have gained greatly in general understanding and acceptance. By railway managers almost without exception the amended law has been accepted in good faith, and they exhibit for the most part a sincere and earnest disposition to conform their methods to its requirements. To a gratifying extent there has been readjustment of rates correction of abuses by the carriers themselves. Methods and usages of one sort and another which operated to individual advantage have been voluntarily changed, and it is not too much to say that there is now a freedom from forbidden discriminations which is actual and general to a degree never before approached."

The Commission further says: "It is in this general and marked improvement in transportation conditions that the Commission observed its special gratification. The amended law, with its enforceable remedies, the wider recognition of its fundamental justice, the quickened sense of public obligation on the part of railroad managers, the clearer perception of shippers of all classes that any individual advantage is morally, as well as legally, indefensible, and the augmented influence of the Commission resulting from its offensive practices of every sort and signally promote the purposes for which the law was enacted. This results in the voluntary adjustment by the parties, without resort to the Commission, of a vast number of compromises, which otherwise would ripen into complaint and litigation, while in numerous instances a settlement is effected through correspondence of personal interviews between the shipper and carrier directly concerned."

The ruling of the Commission are generally and cheerfully accepted by the carriers. The traffic officials of the carriers have manifested, to a commendable degree, a disposition and willingness to fairly and carefully consider the merits and complaints thus called to their attention by the Commission, and have voluntarily reduced their rates and applied corrective measures in numerous cases.

In a communication from one of the Commissioners on the 5th of the present month the statement is made that "interstate transportation was never so clean and free from unfair and unlawful practices at this moment. It may be that here and there venturesome and reckless rail-

Do You Digest What You Eat?

It is one thing to eat and quite another to digest the food. Many people can't do the latter and suffer for years from indigestion without really knowing what is the matter with them. They just know that their "stomach is out of order."

But the most important thing, after all, is to know what is the matter, for then it is easy enough to know what to do. If the action of thousands of people is convincing you that you have indigestion, you have indigestion. It is for just this reason, and that it is a cure for indigestion, that we have this advertisement. It is a reliable laxative and even a 50-cent bottle will help many members of a family to better health.

There is, in truth, no better family laxative than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. road still indulge in rebates or take other measures to give special privileges to a favored shipper. If so, they will be detected sooner or later and adequately punished; but among the great mass of railroad officials there is an honest and firm effort to cooperate with the Commission in the observance of the law.

The law has also commanded the respect and obedience of the shipper. From all the letters which have been secured, I believe we are justified in saying that this great and vexing question is in process of ultimate and just settlement, and that under wise, patient action the problem will finally be solved.

"With malice toward none, and charity for all," proceeding within constitutional lines, the desired end will soon be attained to the benefit of the carrier and shipper alike.

The Republican party stands for a revision and readjustment of our customs laws as changed industrial conditions at home and abroad may have made necessary, keeping steadily in view the cardinal principles of protection to American industries and American labor. As evidence of its good faith in this regard, the national House of Representatives, clothed under the Constitution with exclusive jurisdiction to "originate all bills for raising revenue," on the 20th of April just past, by formal resolution, authorized and directed its Committee on Ways and Means, the organ of the House having jurisdiction of the question, "to sit during the recess of Congress and to gather such information, through governmental agents and otherwise, as it may see fit looking toward the preparation of a bill for the revision of the tariff."

Supplementing this action on the part of the House of Representatives, and cooperating with it, the Senate, in the exercise of its constitutional prerogative to "propose or concur with amendments as other bills," on the 16th of May passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee Finance be authorized, in connection with investigations heretofore ordered by the senate, with the view of promptly securing the information necessary for an intelligent revision of the customs laws of the United States, to call to their assistance experts in the Executive Departments and to employ such other assistants as they shall require; and they are especially directed to report what further legislation is necessary to secure equitable treatment for the agricultural and other products of the United States in foreign countries, and they shall also, in the consideration of change of rates, secure proof of the relative cost of production in this and in principal competing foreign countries of the various articles affected by the tariff upon which changes in rates of duty are desirable."

These public declarations by Congress, upon the eve of the election, give the most solemn assurance possible that the work will be speedily undertaken and pressed to early consummation.

In this connection it can be safely predicted that whatever revision or readjustment of the Republican Party, it will give just and adequate protection to American industries and American labor and defend the American market against the unjust and unequal aggression from whatever quarter they may come.

FINANCES.
Our recent financial disturbance challenged the soundness of our monetary condition and brought to the fore the question of our banking and currency system, the consideration of which became and continues to be a subject of pressing and commanding importance. In the midst of unusual prosperity, with 6,698 banks under direct supervision and control of the National Government, with a paid-up capital of over 900 millions, a surplus and undivided profits of 750 millions, and an outstanding circulation of 630 millions, secured by United States bonds, every dollar of which was worth its face in gold; with an unprecedented holding of gold in the Treasury of the United States, yet sudden paralysis seized the banks, national and State, and they were either reluctant or unable to respond to the ordinary and legitimate demands of trade.

Constitutional prerogative, confidence shaken, and nothing but the prompt and heroic action of the Secretary of the Treasury averted a widespread and serious catastrophe. President Roosevelt well said, in commending the Secretary of the Treasury:

"I congratulate you upon the admirable way in which you have handled the present crisis. I congratulate also those conservative and substantial business men who, in this crisis, have acted with such wisdom and public spirit. By their action they did invaluable service in checking the panic which, beginning as a matter of speculation, was threatening to destroy the confidence and credit necessary to the conduct of legitimate business."

"No one who considers calmly can question that the underlying conditions which make up our financial and industrial well-being are essentially sound and honest. Dishonest dealing and speculative enterprise are merely the occasional incidents of our real prosperity. The action taken by you and by the business men in question has been of the utmost consequence and has secured opportunity for the calm consideration which must inevitably produce entire confidence in our business conditions."

That such a disturbance should have occurred under such circumstances furnishes the strongest evidence that there is something inherently defective in the system itself, which can only be reached by a thorough overhauling. But this system, hastily manufactured by Secretary Chase during the exigencies of war, while confessedly defective in its inability to respond at all times to the varying and exacting demands of trade, yet during the forty-five years of its existence, has served a wise and beneficent purpose.

Under it the public credit was restored and advanced until our bonds floated at a lower rate of interest than those of any other nation. Under it specie payments were resumed, the gold standard established and maintained, and every paper dollar issued convertible into gold. Under this system questionable and worthless state bank issues were driven out of circulation, supplanted by a national currency of unquestioned character and stability.

While other countries have added to their burden of debt, with an increased rate of interest thereon, this nation has paid off 1,494 millions of its obligations, and the present administration has lessened the volume of our indebtedness by $101,341,628, and in its refunding operations has reduced the annual interest charge from $30,371,483 to $21,101,196.

During the period of its existence, with aggregate deposits of 65 billion, the average loss has been only one-half of 1 per cent.

The national banks have served a beneficent purpose in uplifting the credit of the government; in lessening the burden of taxation; in assuring a sound and safe currency that floats at par in our own country as well as in every commercial nation in the world. It has developed the resources of the country, extended its industries, expanded its trade, and aided in keeping the pledge of 1893, that the national debt should be as sacred as the soldiers' graves.

That it has its weaknesses is freely admitted. The defects of the system have been recognized from the beginning by "practically every secretary of the treasury, and while remedial changes have been made as these defects have developed, yet the one glaring fault, the want of elasticity, has continued and remains. As early as 1872 Hon. George S. Boutwell, then secretary of the treasury, directed attention to this defect as follows:

"The circulation of each bank is fixed arbitrarily by a rule of law. The aggregate circulation is, therefore, a fixed sum, and consequently there is practically no reserve to meet the increased demand for money due occasionally to extraordinary events at home or abroad, and arising periodically with the coming of the harvest."

A degree of flexibility in the volume of currency is essential for two reasons: First, the business of the department can not be transacted properly if a limit is fixed, and the power to raise the circulation above or reduce it below that limit is denied. A rule of this nature would compel the secretary to accumulate a large currency balance and to hold it, as otherwise the credit of the government in meeting the ordinary daily claims upon it would be at the mercy of every serious business and political revolution in the United States.

"Secondly, there is a necessity every autumn for moving the crops without delay from the south and west to the seaboard that they may be in hand for export and consumption as wanted. In the summer months funds accumulate at the centers, but the renewal of business in August and September gives employment for large sums and leave little or nothing for forwarding the crops in October and November."

"The problem is to find a way of increasing the currency for moving the crops and diminishing it at once when that work is done."

Secretary Windom, in 1890, reiterated the warning—

"In my judgment the gravest defect in our present financial system is its lack of elasticity."

The demand for money in this country is so irregular that an amount of circulation which will be ample during ten months of the year, will frequently prove so deficient during the other two months as to cause stringency and commercial disaster. Such stringency may occur without any speculative manipulations of money; though, unfortunately, it is often incited by such manipulations.

"The crops of the country have reached proportions so immense that their movement to market, in August and September, annually causes a dangerous absorption of money."

The lack of a sufficient supply to meet the increased demand during those months may entail heavy losses upon the agricultural as well as other business interests. Though financial stringency may occur at any time and from many causes, yet nearly all of the great commercial crisis in our history have occurred during the months named, and unless some provision be made to meet such contingencies in the future, like disasters may be confidently expected."

The recent panic called the attention of Congress to the necessity of further legislation, and a measure has been passed providing for an emergency currency of $500,000,000 to be issued under certain conditions and limitations, an authorization, it is believed, which will prevent the recurrence of any such disaster as befell the country last fall. The secretary of the treasury has already taken the necessary steps to give effect to this legislation, and banking associations are already forming to avail themselves of the benefits of this act. It is doubtful if the provisions of this act will ever be invoked, as the ability to supply $500,000,000 additional currency whenever needed will of itself have a tendency to make its issuance unnecessary.

In the meantime, however, the Republican party is not indifferent to the necessity of a further and comprehensive revision of our monetary and banking system, and to that end the congress just closed authorized the creation of a monetary commission, composed of 18 members of the two houses of congress, clothed with power to inquire into and report to congress at the earliest date practicable what changes are necessary or desirable in the monetary system of the United States or in the laws relating to banking and currency, and for this purpose they are authorized to sit during the sessions or recess of congress, at such times and places as they may deem desirable, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to summons and compel the attendance of witnesses, experts and other assistants as shall be necessary to carry out the purpose for which said commission was created, and to make such investigations and examinations, in this or other countries, of the subjects committed to their charge as they shall deem necessary.

This commission has already organized and entered upon its labors and will diligently prosecute its duties with the hope of formulating a monetary system that will meet every legitimate business need and promote the prosperity of all of our people.

State Department.

But, in the broader field of the world's drama, where the nations are actors, our country has taken a conspicuous and commanding part. Having become a world power, our influence is world-wide and always exerted in the interest of peace and the betterment of mankind. When the dispute between Germany and France regarding the right of control in Morocco threatened to involve all Europe in war, the active influence of the United States, both directly and through its representative at the conference at Algiers, was a potent factor in bringing about a peaceful solution.

The participation of the United States in the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro in August, 1906, and the visit of Secretary Root to that conference and to all the principal maritime countries of South America, where he was received with universal acclaim, put an end to the suspicion and distrust with which the growing power of the United States was regarded by the Latin-American races, and began a new era of friendship and sympathy between all the American republics. This has been augmented by the secretary's visit to Mexico as the guest of the Mexican republic in October, 1907, and by the visit of our fleet to the chief maritime republics of South America and by the enlarged and greater development of the work of the International Union of American Republics for the dissemination of knowledge and the cultivation of trade and friendly relations between the different American countries, for which all the republics are now uniting in the erection of a splendid building in the city of Washington dedicated to the peace and prosperity of all the Americas.

The United States and Mexico have co-operated in bringing about better conditions, which will put an end to all discord and restore peace and prosperity in Central America. At the instance of the United States and Mexico a peace conference of representatives of all the five Central American countries was held in Washington in November and December, 1907, and at this conference which was attended by representatives of the United States and Mexico, a series of treaties was made of the greatest practical importance, among them being a treaty which provides for a permanent international court for the trial and decision of all questions whatever arising between Central American countries. This court has just been inaugurated in Costa Rica. In this a long step has been taken in the direction of peace and enduring peace in Central America, and the United States has won and receives the gratitude of the good and peaceful citizens of all these countries.

The building of the Panama canal, the most colossal undertaking of the century, the successful completion of which is now assured, makes it more important to the United States than ever before that there shall be no hostile control of the route between our great Atlantic and Pacific ports and the isthmus. For that reason it is of especial importance that the people inhabiting the islands and shores of the Caribbean shall maintain independent, peaceful and prosperous governments. The policy of the United States to aid them in maintaining such governments has been prosecuted with special success during the last four years.

The frightful disorder and bloodshed which had marked the annals of San Domingo for many years have been ended by an agreement with the United States taking the form of a treaty entered into with the approval of the senate, under which, by the simple appointment of an American agent to collect Dominican customs revenues, and apply the surplus toward the payment of the Dominican debts, without landing a soldier or firing a gun, complete peace has been maintained for four years past, the commerce and industry of the island have revived, the revenues have doubled, and the nominal indebtedness of over $10,000,000 which hung like a pall over the people who had given up all attempts to pay either principal or interest, has been adjusted and settled at less than $20,000,000, for which interest and sinking fund payments are completely assured by the revenues resulting from the new prosperity.

As a result of this policy, severely criticised at the time of its inauguration, but now generally commended, revolutions on the island have practically ceased, customs laws have been impartially enforced, resulting in an increase of customs collected from $1,852,209 in 1904 to $3,428,012 for the year ending March 31, 1908. Out of $9,103,939 collected in the last three years $4,000,000 over and above the expenses of the government have been saved for the benefit of creditors.

With the active participation of the delegates of the United States, the second international peace conference at The Hague, in the summer of 1907, entered into agreements which, taken together, have been declared by high authority to constitute one of the greatest achievements of modern times.

Eczema is Now Curable.
A St. Louis chemist, after many years of careful experimenting and investigation, has discovered a simple remedy that has cured hundreds of cases of eczema that had been pronounced incurable. This chemist believed that eczema and all itching skin diseases were of local origin and were caused by germs which attacked and fed on the skin. He began to search for a remedy that would destroy these germs, and found that by combining the active principles of certain well known vegetable drugs, and applying them locally, the first application stopped the itching and burning, and if used persistently would drive all germs and their poisons to the surface of the skin and destroy them, leaving a nice, clear, healthy skin. He gave this remarkable remedy the suggestive name of Zemo, and since its introduction to the public Zemo has proved a very popular remedy and is today recognized the most successful and meritorious remedy ever produced for the relief and cure of eczema and all diseases of the skin and scalp.

Mr. Will J. Gilbert, the druggist, endorses and recommends Zemo and says that he believes Zemo to be an honest medicine and will do all that is claimed for it.

1906, and the visit of Secretary Root to that conference and to all the principal maritime countries of South America, where he was received with universal acclaim, put an end to the suspicion and distrust with which the growing power of the United States was regarded by the Latin-American races, and began a new era of friendship and sympathy between all the American republics. This has been augmented by the secretary's visit to Mexico as the guest of the Mexican republic in October, 1907, and by the visit of our fleet to the chief maritime republics of South America and by the enlarged and greater development of the work of the International Union of American Republics for the dissemination of knowledge and the cultivation of trade and friendly relations between the different American countries, for which all the republics are now uniting in the erection of a splendid building in the city of Washington dedicated to the peace and prosperity of all the Americas.

Four people now have more than a hundred thousand votes, and the contest is just half over. When it started the wildest estimates placed the top figures of the contest at far less than that. But this is no ordinary little contest. More than two score of very active contestants are fighting daily for a standing. Their votes are not all cast. The figures in the paper represent just what they wish to have voted and no more. So you never can tell who is ahead in reality by the way the figures show the matter up in the score column. But the figures printed are strong enough to give an inkling of the way things will stand at the finish. If your friend is not where you think he or she ought to be get busy and put them in the right place.

Mr. A. W. Stewmann is now in the lead of all the districts but his lead is so slight as not to indicate anything of the real strength of those at the top. Miss Mern Nichols, of the same district, occupies the second place of honor, with Miss Laura Street, of district 3 in third place and Miss Ella Hill, whose has been for some days leading the race, now has the fourth position. Mr. Joe Desberger, of district 1 is fifth, and Mr. Chas. Denker, of district 2, is sixth, having made the greatest advance of the day.

Twenty Dollars in Gold.

Everybody is out after the special prize for the week, the precious $20 gold piece. It isn't so big a prize as the specials that have been offered before and have been won, but it is cash and that means a whole lot. Get the cash and you can invest it any way you please and there is no one to dictate how you shall spend it unless you happen to have husband or a wife to attend to those sordid money matters for you.

At any rate the prize is bigger than the special that will be offered next week and the week after, so it will pay you to sit right down with that list of your friends and either call them up over the phone or get on their trail and make them come across at once with those subscriptions they promised you several weeks ago. Tell them the truth that the subscriptions will do you a heap sight more good now than they will at any time later.

The Limit's Off.

Remember that the limit of voting is off now and anyone can cast any number of votes that he or she may be disposed to have appear opposite his or her name in the score column. That does not mean that it is time to go on a vote jag and give your hand away to the enemy. It means that there is no restriction from this office. The contest may be a number of reserve votes belonging to various candidates and has as yet received no instructions as to how to cast them. He is communicating with contestants as rapidly as possible in regard to the matter. Call him up if he has not called you and tell him how many votes you wish to have placed to your credit from the reserve you have on deposit, or tell him to send you the votes and you will send them in as you see fit.

Who Are Eligible?

Any white person, man or woman, of good character, residing in the territory covered by The Sun may become a candidate for the honors and the prizes in The Paducah Sun's Greatest Popularity Contest.

Duration—Awards.

The contest starts with today's announcement and will continue till July 4, at 9 p. m., at which time a committee of well-known and trustworthy citizens will be chosen to determine who are entitled to the prizes.

The territory covered by The Sun has been divided for the purposes of this contest into three districts, as follows:

Districts.

District 1 comprises all of the city of Paducah north of Broadway, including the north side of Broadway. District 2 comprises all of the city of Paducah south of Broadway, including the south side of Broadway. District 3 comprises all of the territory served by The Sun outside the limits of the city of Paducah.

More Than $2,000 in Prizes.

Following is a description of the magnificent list of prizes offered for the winners in this contest together with the arrangement governing their distribution.

The candidate securing the highest number of votes, regardless of district, will be given The First Grand Prize, a $700 double building lot in Gregory Heights, Paducah's prettiest suburb.

The candidate securing the second highest number of votes, regardless of district, will be given The Second Grand Prize, a $400.00 two-carat, blue-white diamond, on display at Jo Wolf's jewelry store, 327 Broadway.

After the judges of the finish of the contest have awarded the Grand Prizes, the names of the two winners will be stricken from the list of contestants and the nine district prizes will be awarded as follows:

The three persons who lead their respective districts will be awarded a $300 piano, on display at W. T. Miller & Bros., 520 Broadway, a $150 suit of furniture, displayed at Garner Bros., 207-213 South Third, a $100 buggy and harness, displayed at Powell-Rogers, 129-131 North Third. The above three prizes will be given to the three district leaders in the order of the number of votes credited to them.

The three persons who receive the second highest number of votes in their respective districts will be awarded the following prizes in their order of rank—a $65 watch on display at Pollock's, 333 Broadway, a $50 lady's or man's watch at Nagel and Meyer's, corner Third and Broadway, a $50 Miller range, displayed at Hank Bros., 212 Broadway.

The right is reserved to alter these rules should necessity demand.

Contestants may secure subscriptions anywhere they wish. For instance a candidate in District 2 is entitled to turn in subscriptions from District 2 or District 1, and vice versa.

New subscribers are those who were not taking The Sun May 23, the date of the start of the contest. Transfer from one member of a family to another or to someone else living in the same house will not be counted as a new subscription.

The three persons receiving the third highest number of votes in their respective districts will be awarded the following prizes, a $37.50 refrigerator, displayed at Hengenberg's, 422 Broadway, a $25 chair or other furniture from Rhodes-Burford's, 112-116 North Fourth, a $25 lady's or man's watch on display at J. L. Wanner's, 311 Broadway.

Three additional prizes for the three districts are added and two scholarships in the International Correspondence Schools and one scholarship in the Paducah Central Business College, offering the choice of nine courses. These prizes will be awarded in the three different districts so that candidates receiving the second highest number of votes in their respective districts may choose one of these scholarships instead of the merchandise prize. Should the second highest candidates not desire one of these scholarships, the third highest candidates may choose them. If these two classes do not wish the scholarships they will be awarded to the fourth highest candidates in the three districts.

In addition the management of The Sun will spend $100 in special prizes to be distributed to busy candidates during the progress of the contest, making a grand total of more than $2,000 in prizes, to be distributed gratis.
